

TEMPORALITIES, SUBJECTIVITIES, POLITICS

The temporality of political upheaval is that of a break within the continuity of an abstract, homogeneous and empty time of capital. Conversely, the chronopolitics of capitalism and its dream of global synchronicity find its ultimate realization in the crisis, which has become a mode of governmentality.

What if we take the question from the notion of subjectivity as it relates to an agency, that is to say on politics in a given place and time, according to a point of view that was not interchangeable?

On the other hand, to what forms of temporality and political subjectivities do the movements we know give rise to? What are their forms of inscription in social practice, the languages by which they are transmitted, their forms of historicity?

This seminar invites to an exploration of the notions of temporalities and political subjectivities, by asking the question, not only of historical practice, but also of what forms of political agency and praxis are relying on the present situation.

Following a seminar on political studies in the Near and Middle East in 2016-2017 and 2017-2018, it opens up to different situations of transnationalities throughout the history of the movements.

The forms of reliance and of social, political, economic organization, etc., no longer simply follow the logic of national and international frameworks, in a way linked to globalization, but also local / global, transnational and translocal scales.

We will revisit the conditions according to which the modalities of the relations between life and politics have been transformed, following inter- and transdisciplinary methodologies.

A large place will be made for research on the forms of the archive.

Pre-program 1st Semester :

October – Session 1

- Amir Kianpour (LLCP-Paris 8): Temporal Inequalities in Marxist Theory
- Béatrice Rettig (LLCP-Paris 8): What is Subjectivity?
- Camille Fauroux (EHESS/Lille 3) : The Standpoint Theory in Living Archive

November – Session 2

- Valentin Schaepelynck (EXPERICE-Paris 8): The Temporalities of Institutional Analysis
- Engin Sustam (EXPERICE-Paris 8): Marxists and Anarchists Orthodoxies and Heterodoxies in Self-organization Practices
- Josep Rafanell i Ora : Creating Communities Against Capitalism

December – Session 3

- Naji El Khatib (MEDFIL): The Writing of Stateless People Struggles History
- Marina Nebbiolo (MEDFIL): The project « Talking stones », Alternative Narratives and Practices of Space
- Yilmaz Özdil (Mardin Artuklu University) : The Visual Construction of Kurdish Identities in Cinema

This seminar takes place at a monthly rhythm in Paris 8 Saint-Denis University, 2 St. de la Liberté 93526 Saint-Denis – Metro Saint-Denis University (Dates/Rooms to come). It is public and open to all.

Contact: info@transglobal-studies.org